You will notice that this weekend, we are introducing our expanded teams of welcomers. The idea is that with more people welcoming, we can provide a better welcome for everyone, both longstanding parishioners and newcomers to our parishes. With the expansion of the welcome teams, some members will be free from handing out hymn books and be able to talk to people both before and after Mass, answer questions and provide a special welcome for newcomers or people coming to a Catholic Church for the first time. We're also providing new contact cards for new parishioners to register, as an alternative to doing this online. New parishioners will be given welcome packs in our attractive new tote bags. This also includes a new magazine giving information about the parish. New parishioners will also be offered a phone call from an existing parishioner to welcome them and give information about parish activities. We're also improving the physical space at the entrance to our churches with new visual displays and clearer focus as people come into the churches. A leaflet giving further details of all that we've done during our work on welcome over the past year is also being given out this weekend. As we pray and discern what our next focus should be in improving the life of our parish, please do let us know your ideas and suggestions.
